By playing ENDLESS, you agree to the terms in this document.

Thank you for downloading this game! This is my first ever project with very little experience making games and no budget. It was very fun making it and I am glad to present it to you. This document is used to state my copyright aswell as give credit to some of the assets that I used. If you are simply going to play the game without making content, inspecting assets and code, or contacting me, please skip the rest of this document and play the game.

If you want to make content, mods, or any form of media relating to the game, please read the following section.

Content Relating to ENDLESS:

- You may make content based of ENDLESS as long as you provide some form of credit. This can be through a link to the ENDLESS kickstarter, the storepage, any social media accounts owned by me, or by simply mentioning “shademakesgames.”
- You may make mods or addons to my game. It is not required but feel free to share your creations with me. Depending on the success of your mod, I might be inclined to hire you or buy the mod off of you.

If you want to use or look at the assets or code, please read the following section.

Assets and Code:

- Please note that I am new programmer, the code I wrote might be inefficient and I would not recomend using it as an example. However, you can use it as long as you don’t create an identical copy of ENDLESS or a copy that infringes on my copyright.
- The code I use for the FPS controls come from Rayuse over on youtube. All credit goes to him for making the controller.
- Feel free to use any assets I made, as long as you don’t create an identical layout of the apartment building in ENDLESS or a copy that infringes on my copyright.
- I did not make the detailed materials (wood, metal, etc.) in the game, those I found over at ambientcg.com.

Credit to some assets that have additional restrictions in their license:
