Welcome to the official ending guide of Let's Split Up

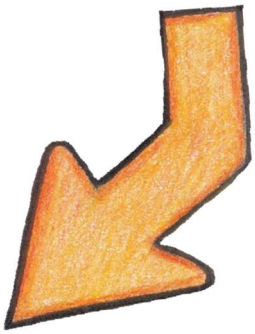

Thank you for choosing to drive up Luna Mountain.

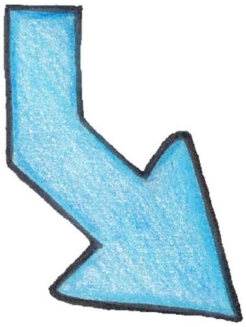

This guide is split up into sections to make sure you can find your way back down.

Whether you choose to go with Chris, Gemma or Brad, you can easily check off which choices you've made along the way to be sure you'll see everything there is to see.

On the final page is a list of all the endings to tick off as well

Enjoy your stay and good luck.

Luna Mountain has one entrance and many exits.

It has rarely been visited by those who don't already know where it is because it cannot be found on any map. If a person is unlucky enough to be really lost, they might just find themselves drawn up a dark mountain. If they're unfortunate enough not to turn straight around, they might never come back.

Or they might just have the time of their lives.

That's because Luna Mountain rarely stays in one reality for long.

Sometimes it appears to be a quaint and friendly small town and other times, the sinister spirits and intentions of the mountain are more clear.

Nothing and no one is ever the same on Luna Mountain.
